Commerce

The building at 50 Commerce Street pulses with history. Depression-era revelers snuck in when it was a speakeasy. As the Blue Mill Tavern, it saw 50 years of change. As Grange Hall, it captured the heart of Greenwich Village as a beloved gathering place. Now, New York Magazine has dubbed Harold Moore one of the "Best Chefs You Haven't Heard of (Yet)," saying, "At the ripe old age of 35, the grizzled Daniel veteran has raised the bar for brasserie cuisine." Pre-theatre dinner package of $35.

Centro Vinoteca

Chef de Cuisine, Leah Cohen is behind the stove, serving Centro's "creative authentic" take on the culinary traditions of Italy. Centro's popular small plates "piccolini" allow you to nibble while perusing the menu or make a great accompaniment to one of the many Italian wines available by the quartino. Pre-theatre dinner package of $29.95.
